

Taking beauty to new heights

Posted May 1, 2011

There are now products in the market for maintaining youthful skin, especially around the facial area – and one of the raves is the Oxygen Infusion System.

GOOD SKIN: Yeoh and Kathie showing their skincare products.

It provides a continuous, readily available source of therapeutic grade oxygen through a specialised molecular sieve that filters oxygen from the ambient air into the skin ...

"Moreover, the inconvenience and costs of refilling, and the fire and safety hazards of storing and handling can also be avoided," said Eric Yeoh, spokesperson for Intraceuticals, a beauty line promoted by CeleBeauty Sdn Bhd in Karamanusing, Kota Kinabalu, Sabah ...

He said Intraceuticals had modified and refined the technology and applied it to the beauty industry with a delivery system easy to use and maintain, doesn't look out of place in the skin care environment, and most importantly, achieves results ...

Beauty jargons aside, sales manager for CeleBeauty, ex-Harvest Festival beauty queen Kathie Renjus said this treatment was recommended for beauty-conscious women who wanted to look good, no matter how old they are ...

She added that results were instant with a constant improvement over the course of six treatments and the treatment was safe.
