

Tested: Intraceuticals Infusion Therapy

What: Intraceuticals Infusion therapy

Where: Waters Boutique Spa

Duration: 30-45 minutes

Price: Rs. 5000 plus taxes

Rating: 3 stars

How: This therapy uses pressurised oxygen as a medium to deliver specially formulated serums directly to the skin, instead of just topical application... After getting transported through the oxygen, which cools and calms the skin, the serum, which is a mix of vitamins, antioxidants and hyaluronic acid, an ingredient naturally found in the skin, is transported to the deep layers of the skin. Soon after, a hydration gel is applied, followed by a moisture binding cream, so that the moisture is retained by the skin and not allowed to escape. This immediately hydrates and replenishes the skin, and you can see visible results in the contours of the face and firmness of the skin...

To ensure the effects last as long as possible, Intraceuticals also has unique home-care products including a cleansing gel, eye contour gel, hydration gel and moisture binding cream. It is advised that you get a treatment done twice a month, to keep your skin refreshed, and since this is a non invasive procedure, that gives evident results, it's a quick, painless beauty fix! The best part about this treatment is that each uniquely formulated serum targets a specific problem from re-hydration to fine lines, wrinkles, dark spots and dullness. It also has no down-time, which means that unlike a medical procedure, you can apply your makeup and go out soon after you're done. This makes it a favourite of Hollywood stars like Madonna, Eva Longoria and even Victoria Beckham...
